Speakers:

Grame Barty – Regional Director Americas, Austrade.

Grame is an experienced business executive having spent the last 11 years building and managing a highly successful software business selling around the world including the US, Mexico, Canada, South East Asia, India, Hong Kong, New Zealand, UK and Europe.

Grame now oversees Austrade's operations in Canada, USA and Latin America across a wide range of industries.

Graham Goerke, Chairman of Partners, Jackson McDonald

Graham has extensive experience in large scale resource project land access and tenure and environmental law. He also leads the firm's involvement in Globalaw which is an international network of independent law firms which provides access to over 5,000 commercial lawyers in 167 locations around the world.

Jackson McDonald's involvement with Globalaw means that they can introduce Australian mining companies looking to do business in South America to firms that understand resource projects and can provide practical commercial advice that offers good value for money.
